MANAGEMENT DISCUSSION AND ANALYSIS REPORT

OVERALL VIEW

Year 2014-15 started on a high note with double-digit forecasts, but is likely to end with an abysmal sub 2-3% growth. Reduced excise duty earlier in the year and the formation of a stable government did give the sentiment a push, but sporadic sales growth were driven by only a few players. The automobile industry has pinned its hopes on falling fuel prices and interest rates, and stalled infrastructure projects getting the go-ahead — all of which may pump up the economy

Fuel prices are on their way down, and for the first time in five years, running cost has come down in 2014.

Global crude prices have fallen by 40% from the highs in June, compelling oil marketing companies in India to pass on the benefits. The result: The cost of vehicle ownership has fallen by 3% this fiscal, according to an ET Intelligence Group analysis.

Historically, a decline in the cost of ownership has led to a spike in passenger car volume growth. In FY04, FY07 and FY10, the cost of car ownership dropped by 9% on an absolute basis, resulting in passenger car volume growth growing by over 20%.

The price difference between petrol and diesel has almost halved to Rs 10.82 in Delhi in December 2014 from the peaks of Rs. 19.91 at the beginning of January 2013. The switch in favour of petrol-driven cars has already begun.

For now, overall fuel economics looks good and is expected to drive demand, but the decreasing price gap between petrol and diesel fuel is bringing strains to car manufacturers for what direction to choose from here.

INDUSTRY OVERVIEW, STRUCTURE AND DEVELOPMENT

The automobile sector is one of the key segments of the economy having extensive forward and backward linkages with other key segments of the economy. The Indian automobile industry comprises of a number of Indian-origin and multinational players, with varying degree of presence in different segments.

Automobile dealer Industry plays the vital role of link between the manufacturer of the automobile and the consumer. With large inventories of cars, dealers provide consumers with a wide array of vehicles to meet their needs at different price points.

The sales of most of automobiles today are subject to changing consumer tastes, the popularity of the manufacturer's vehicle models, and the intensity of competition with other dealers. Along with the sale of the car, most dealers also sell additional automobile-related services to potential buyers. These services include extended warranties, undercoating, insurance, and financing. After market sales departments sell these services and other merchandise after vehicle salespersons have closed a deal. Sales of these packages greatly increase the revenue generated for each vehicle sold. Because sales of automobiles fluctuate significantly, automotive dealers offer generous incentives, rebates and financing deals during slow periods to maintain high sales volumes and to reduce inventories.

Performing repair work on vehicles is another profitable service provided in this industry. Service departments at motor vehicle dealers provide repair services and sell accessories and replacement parts. Although most service departments perform repairs only, some dealers also have body shops to do collision repair, refinishing and painting. The work of the service department has a major influence on customers' satisfaction and willingness to purchase future vehicles from the dealer.

Industry Structure: The automobile dealer industry is comprised of two segments. New car dealers, often called franchised dealers, primarily sell new cars, sport utility vehicles (SUVs), and passenger and cargo vans. These franchised dealers sell vehicles manufactured by a particular company, which may include several brands. Used car dealers comprise the other segment of the industry, and are sometimes referred to as independent dealers. These dealers sell a variety of vehicles that have been previously owned or formerly rented and leased. Improvements in technology have increased the durability and longevity of new cars, raising the number of high-quality used cars that are available for sale. Used car dealers by definition do not sell new cars, but most new car dealers do sell some used cars.

New vehicle sales account for more than half of total sales revenue at franchised new car dealers. These sales also generate additional revenue in other departments of new car dealers, which are more profitable to the dealer. By putting new vehicles on the road, dealers can count on new repair and service customers and future trade-ins of used vehicles.

Developments

Prior to liberalisation of Indian Economy there were only three players in the Automobile Industry and Maruti was dominating the numbers by a fair margin. Cars were on the waiting list as the Demand far exceeded the Supply and choice was limited for the customers. Liberalisation of the Indian economy in 1991 had put the Indian automobile industry on a new growth trajectory. It attracted international giants to set up their production facilities in the country. In the present times, we have almost all major manufacturers of the world here in India and the numbers are only increasing. Customers are spoilt for choice and dealerships are willing to go that extra mile to make that ever so crucial “sale”. From a seller’s market it has turned into a buyers’ market. Today, India has one of the fastest growing automobile industries in the world.

In an effort to achieve greater financial and operational efficiency and flexibility in the automobile dealer industry, greater emphasis is being placed on after sale services, such as financing and vehicle maintenance and repair, at both new and used car dealers. These services remain less susceptible to economic downturns. They are also part of an effort to enhance customer loyalty and overall customer service.

In recent years, the sale of used cars has become another useful business area for many new car dealers in the wake of shrinking margins on new cars. To make them acceptable to more customers, some dealers promote “certified pre-owned” vehicles to customers who want a warranty on their used vehicle. This often raises the price, but in return provides customers with peace of mind. In economic downturns, the relative demand for these and other used cars often increases as sales of new cars decline.

The increased use of the Internet to market, new and used cars has also had a significant impact on automobile dealers. Through the Internet, consumers can easily access vehicle reviews, view pictures of vehicles and compare models, features, and prices. Many websites allow consumers to research insurance, financing, leasing and warranty options. As a result, consumers are generally better informed and spend less time meeting with salespersons.

OPPORTUNITIES AND THREATS

Opportunities

Fuel prices are on their way down, and for the first time in five years, running cost has come down in 2014. The result: The cost of vehicle ownership has fallen by 3% this fiscal, according to an ET Intelligence Group analysis.

Historically, a decline in the cost of ownership has led to a spike in passenger car volume growth. In FY04, FY07 and FY10, the cost of car ownership dropped by 9% on an absolute basis, resulting in passenger car volume growth growing by over 20%.

Launch of new models by Maruti Suzuki will provide the required boost for the sales and revenue growth. We thus expect year 2015-16 to be the year of growth.

India being one of the largest automobile markets in the world, has a bright future because of several factors like rapid urbanisation, Car buyers getting younger, growing middle class, overall growth of other industries, infrastructure development and the improved road infrastructure. This along with rising disposable income, aspirations for a better lifestyle and a slew of new product launches lined up by companies would aid overall increase in sales volumes. The Company, with its wide portfolio is expected to benefit from the same. This growing consumerism is expected to lead to an increase in car penetration.

Further, there has been continuing shift in rural spending in terms of its growth and it is less dependent on farm income. Income remittances from migrant rural population, increase in land prices and increase in non-farm activities and increased government spending in rural areas, have helped to reduce rural under-employment and raised rural income levels. This indicates a potential growth opportunity in this market. The Company is poised to benefit from the same.

Threats

In developed markets, engine capacity and wheel base are the basis of segmentation of passenger cars, price does play a role but only upto a point. Since affordability is the most important demand driver in India, the domestic car market has until now been segmented on the basis of vehicle price. Price based competition also takes place in a continuum than in segments since nearly all the models are launched in multiple versions at different price points. As a result higher end variant compete with lower-end-variant of a car in a segment above it.

Further, intensity of competition has increased in almost all the segments of the Indian automobile dealers market whether it's a competition for sales of cars from dealers of same brand or of competing brands or competition in after-sales service business from other dealers of same brand or from organised (branded) franchised service network or from unorganised local garages.

Moreover, in the automobile dealer industry, vehicles cannot be kept in the store for long unlike consumer durables, as automobiles lose value with time. The model gets old and the customer would not be willing to pay for it. The damage due to handling, if they are in the showroom or warehouse for too long, is another factor.

Other factors like affordability, innovation, infrastructure facilities and price of fuel, stringent emission norms and safety regulations and interest rates affect the demand for automobiles to a larger extent. These factors and challenges always keep the automakers and dealers on their toes.

OUTLOOK

The financial year 2014-15 marks the growth in passenger car category.

The effects of government's decision not to extend the excise benefit were reduced by car maker's offers of discounts for pushing sales. However, with the costs moving upwards, the prices may increase from present level and this may dissuade customers waiting to close their purchase. The chances of any re-looking at reduction in excise rates are slim and tradeoff between tax collection and industrial growth will be difficult.

The long term outlook for the automobile industry is bright and robust, though outlook for the Indian auto industry in near term is expected to remain stable growth.

RISKS AND CONCERNS

Indian car industry is one of the most promising car industries across the globe. It has gradually strengthened its foothold in the international area as well. The country is dealing with many car manufacturers, dealers, and associations in various countries including U.S. From some countries, India import cars and car components and to some India exports.

Though India has witnessed a growing customer base, it has not inoculated them from the global crisis. The crippling liquidity and high interest rates have slowed down the vehicle demand.

Rising Input costs of commodities, availability of credit and affordable interest rates are important facilitators for automobile sales. The uncertain exchange rates and a sudden increase in dollar value against Indian rupee have contributed to slowdown. Increasing Dollar value has raised the landed cost of imported machine, tools and even raw materials required for production.

In addition, rising cost of dealership operations, limited availability of trained and untrained manpower, increasing labour and wage rates, prospects of accelerated career growth and better training & development opportunities have kept the margins of dealership operations under immense pressure.

Intensity of competition has increased in almost all the segments of the Indian automotive market due to entry of new players and appointment of new dealers by Maruti. Launch of new models by different players have also increased market competition. This increasing level of competition would also translate into higher selling and distribution costs. The Company is aware of the increasing competition and is taking measures to remain competitive in the market place.
